Comments: Isn't this land protected under treaty already? They have been taking away more & more land from the Dakota everything a new resource is found. The Lakota already don't have much left but they still hold what is sacred dear. While they live in poverty and over half or so the national standard they still hold onto their sacred ideals and don't sell what they have already lost even. They don't deserve to lose anymore for white man's greed.
