Comments: I am a Resident of Portland, OR and have concerns about this project.

While I am a fan of Geothermal, my priority for conservation supersedes this.

If this land is to be explored for geothermal then there must be a guarantee of no negative effect on the area or erosion of sovereignty to our indigenous species and people.

It also should be undertaken with public oversight at all stages, rather than just corporate and government agencies.

Of most concern is the impact to Spotted Owls, and Salmon.

This Wikipedia link shows that we have an estimated less than 50% of our virgin forests and that these areas have become dappled. When is enough going to be enough?
