Comments: The damage not only to the indigenous peoples sacred zones but to the ecosystems that encompass this area will be catastrophic. There can not be a separation of the stewards of these lands if there is hopes of sustainable ecosystems for future generations of the region and further beyond. More projects that strip rights and land from tribal leadership and stewarding have time and time again shown devastating losses. This cannot be allowed, it endangers far too much in an already dangerous time for the sustainable and habitat zones that will be lost or destroyed as collateral of this project. I am a Six Nations confederation descendant and have been front lines of pipeline expansions and other unjustified moves to seize or "develop" sovereign land since I was a child. It cannot continue this way. The damage must stop, the brutality must end. I stand in opposition.
