Comments: this land is sacred. earth is not a consumable, it is our home. we have to yield to pleas of kindredness to our home with humility. all our inventions don't vanish if we connect with the earth again, they just shift in purpose and intention. please consider the short mindedness of a project like this. with so much destruction already taking place on our planet, any extra wound has exponential power. do not mine a place that time knows is sacred. do not try to take power from time, time always wins. this project is not the future our families n fellow life on earth needs or deserves. careful calling something necessary which is simply desire. harming the land harms us all. this is not a time to be greedy.
