

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 5/16/2025 5:56:38 PM

First name: Carrie

Last name: Greishaw

Organization:

Title:

Comments: This land, known as Pésła is sacred to the Lakota people and must not be mined. Pe'sla is a sacred site with federal Indian trust status and mining companies cannot be allowed to contaminate this land forever. The underground deposits of graphite are small and low-grade - which tells us that this project doesn't even appear to be about money. The Pe'sla mining proposal is a calculated and willful attack on Indigenous sovereignty, history, and human rights.