Comments: We as a nation need to stop harming and exploiting communities we share this earth with. We cannot keep pretending that we are doing what's right in the face of such obvious harm to a community that has been here long before us. This exploratory drilling project is clearly an act of disrespect towards the Lakota and Dakota people, as well as other tribes that consider this land sacred. Doing the right thing means making choices that benefit all people, not just those in power, lest we be exploited when we are no longer in positions of power.
