Comments: I am extremely concerned about expanding a resort when the local infrastructure is not only in another state, but is not designed to handle a huge surge in housing, roads, and all the other things needed when a population grows. I'm concerned about how Idaho and Idaho residents would be impacted. I'm also very concerned about wildlife, and just plain wild lands. These wild lands belong to all of us, not millionaire or billionaire developers. I think to expand to the degree that Targhee would like is shortsighted, and would affect many too many people, whole communities, tax our roads and water, electrical grid and sewage disposal, to say nothing of the creatures who live here.

Please, tone it down, and think of the big picture, not just the next ski day.
