Comments: The first significant amount of time I spent before I moved to Driggs at 8 years old was at Teton Canyon campground in the dispersed camping. We lived in the campground next to the river for an entire Summer because my parents could not yet afford housing in town. This campground was my refuge, my sanctuary, in a similar way as I believe it is for all the animals that live in Mono Tree and South Bowl as well as all the people who get to participate the recreation activities Teton Canyon offers. It is unconscionable to even consider making this a private expansion of Targhee resort to further exclude low income visitors who want to experience the majesty of Teton Canyon. I am vehemently against the expansion of Targhee on account of the precarious ecosystem, the watershed, and the general public getting to access and steward such a pristine waterscape.
