Comments: I have been recreating in the outdoors for most of my 67 years, and have been skiing for all but 10. Consequently, I have witnessed countless National Forests all but destroyed by the greed and ignorance of developers and corporations. Too many of our pristine lands have become overdeveloped playgrounds for the elite at the expense of wildlife, magnificent vegetation and havens for those seeking authentic outdoor experiences. Grand Targhee remains one of the few top tier resorts that has kept its character and family appeal. It is our responsibility to preserve the gem that we are so fortunate to have in our own backyard and protect the habitat and lifestyle that has drawn us to Teton Valley. The cost of major expansion far outweighs any benefit to our community.

Let's be responsible to the future residents and visitors of Grand Targhee.
