Comments: Privatizing more sacred and recreational land in an era of the highest wealth inequality and disparities in US history, this motive to expand the resort will not only destroy the democratic history of skiing culture, the local population's values and ideals, but also perpetuate and exemplify short-sighted greed. I pray you have soul for the (local) people who maintain the heritage of the area, and let the land be. Land is the basis of all life so no one should inherently own the foundation of life, because doing so literally kills the heart and soul of others who have not but who could have... thus, we've already privatized the area enough. Stop! Halt! Please, for the love of land and God.
