Comments: I think Grand Targhee Ski Resort is just fine the way it is and it's imperative to keep a small footprint.

The improvements that they have made in recent years have more than satisfied the general public.

I believe that there is plenty of potential to improve the area within the current master plan.

The Forrester Service should encourage the resort owners to work with what they have, the ability is there. Until Targhee builds to the current capacity and improves the base area I believe there is no reason the Forest Service should approve the expansion beyond the 2600 acres in the permit area.

I truly love the area and have skied and enjoyed the facility since 1974, and my family and friends will continue to support the area as we have for many years to come. It is great the way it is.

Thanks for taking my comment.
