Comments: The Forest Service must adopt an alternative that upholds the wild integrity of the Mount Timpanogos Wilderness-either by allowing the metal remnants of the Quonset hut to decay naturally or by removing them using wilderness-compatible methods. The remaining rock and concrete can and should be dismantled and left to fade back into the landscape. Claims that the structure cannot be dismantled-or even repaired-without motorized equipment are inaccurate and misleading, especially given that the Forest Service originally built the hut without using such equipment.
