

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 7/16/2025 7:47:02 PM

First name: Scott

Last name: MacGregor

Organization:

Title:

Comments: A healthy forest is one that reflects a number of different stages of development allowing for mixed environments that support a variety of plant and animal life. A monoculture ecosystem isn't in the best interest of the environment or the people who wish to make use of it. Judicious use of clearing and thinning of trees are essential to bring back a more natural and balanced environment within the project area. I applaud this effort.