Comments: The overall amount of NF land is very small compared to BLM and DNR where there is suitable grazing. The damage caused by domestic grazing is immense not only to the destruction of understory, erosion issues, polluting creeks, but also spread of disease. There are thousands of acres of unused orchards and old ranches. No private industry should have the cheap access to destroy national forests. Prioritize returning all NF lands to how they were which will build fire resiliency and supply more economic value than the pity grazing dollars. R
