Comments: I am upset by what has been done to Slate Lick fields. the round-up was spayed and killed out the lovely large fir and big white pines in the fields. I was down there once when the contractor was spraying on a windy day. really don't you get that round up it toxic. there are endangered turtles and salamanders there. the woman who was the biologist has honestly wrecked what was once a lovely area. fresh out of school thinking she knew what was best? have you been there? it's nothing but thistles. no one camps there anymore because it is a crap hole. I'm super disappointed as an adjoining neighbor. she ran off most of the equestrians. it's many a "party" zone and poachers. along with the meth camps. years ago we worked with the forest service to make this an equestrian area, and the mountian bikes in the Riley Srpings area, as a group we would have meetings and worked together till "she" got involved. it is so sad to see how something 12 yrs ago was so nice and the community enjoyed turn in to what it is now. not to say the logging. for pulp wood. why? i bet it's costing the tax payers money to just cut that small pulp wood. really...? yes I'm upset.
