

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/5/2025 1:47:21 AM

First name: Willard

Last name: Bertrand

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Wildfires should be completely controlled. Fire is the oldest weapon of war, yet it is completely invulnerable to prevention or defeat. Any terrorist could walk through or forests and start fires at will. No present fire fighting strategy is working with greater than 40% effectiveness. The military surveillance systems should make early fire detection effective so that every fire could be found by satellites and drones, investigated with video, infrared are other modern tools, response to with military efficiency, and extinguished with first service personnel are assets.

Instead, we continue to struggle with outdated technologies, silly governmental policy meetings, and no hope for an effective result. Why?