

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/5/2025 9:00:01 PM

First name: Julien

Last name: Trembley

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Industries that turn the most profit should be shunned, as that is only obtained by pillaging the land. Our goal should no longer be profitability, but sustainability. The government has long been overdue on investing in research and science to ensure we can stop these harmful practices of mining and logging. The American people urge the federal government to turn away from the draw of the dollar and put the interest of the American people first. Instead of allowing these lands to be corrupted, turn to science for the resources we need. We will not allow our public lands to be stripped of its natural beauty and biodiversity. Not even an acre.