Comments: Please put a hold on the massive Canyon Forest Restoration Project on the Olympic National Forest. This is anything but Restoration. It includes over 900 acres of logging on naturally regenerated, mature legacy forests with the age range up to 164 years according to the preliminary Environmental Assessment. As it stands now, the the PEA fails to consider the climate impacts of logging and the loss of valuable ecosystem services. At 19.3 million board feet and 1,900+ acres of logging this is by far the largest timber sale in recent Olympic National Forest history and ought to be considered in a full EIS. When we lose these mature, complex forests we won't get them back.
