Comments: The Ozark Trail is a multifunctional resource for in-state and interstate users representing a unique health, educational and revenue opportunity. Corridor identification, construction and maintenance require resources, planning and execution timing to provide the optimal experience that benefit the state and region and are not competitive to, but rather complement commercial/industrial use. By providing a shielding corridor boundary, the trail is better protected from damage that would diminish the user experience, efforts/inputs that created it and consequently the value it provides. I support and would expect that the USFS would act to create the protective corridor to maximize the benefits of the Ozark Trail for the people of Missouri and beyond. I refrain from allocation specifics as that would require access, technical and possibly aesthetic factors to be determined.
