Comments: This obvious move to clearcut and take out public lands is outrageous. Perhaps not building mansions in fire zones is a better option then clearcutting hundreds of thousands of acres of habitat for endangered species to protect those mansions. This is very obvious. A plan to open up our forests to industrial activity in the guise of wildfire mitigation. If you want to help with fire then thin the dead trees, do controlled burns, do actual science backed plans not this corporate scheme. We will fight you on this to our last breath. We value and love our forests and we will not let them be destroyed to benefit rich landowners and endless development.
