Comments: I as a member of the outdoor community of Hikers and backpackers located in the State of Washington I do Object to the Idea of "thinning" the forests in this great state. thinning is an excuse to cut down trees for the sake of profit , and I have t seen this type of action since I grew up in Washington state . DO NOT move ahead with this stupid and selfish plan to destroy or forests! The forests are just maturing from the last time the logging industry attached the forest .
