Comments: The proposal to fast-track commercial logging in this vital, priceless habitat is ill-advised and excessive. Wildfire mitigation is important, but not at the expense of destroying habitat for some of our most endangered, iconic species like grizzly bears and bull trout. This project would set a precedent for more logging around national park borders, with the bulk of the benefit to the timber companies. Our natural resources, precious habitats, clean air, clean water, and communities pay the price once the trees are gone.
