Comments: The complexity of the site and capacity challenges were known before the proposal but not included in documents? Or they were unknown and emerged during the comment period? What specific complexities were identified? What challenges were incurred? My comments focused on my desire to build a cabin that would be iconic, stand as a statement of belief in the strength and enduring dedication to public enjoyment and investment in our public lands. What happened? How many times have public agencies asked for public input in the interest of engaging the public and then obscured the decisionmaking and ignored the input and the process? We can do this. A public/private /non-profit partnership- this is not moon man talk - it is how we do hard things. Let's go!
