Comments: Thank you for the opportunity to comments. My main concern with this project is that recent timber sales in the Fourmile Creek area, have adversely impacted dispersed camping options, especially for horse camping. There are fewer and fewer equestrian campgrounds, so dispersed camping is often the only option. It helps tremendously to have trees to tie high lines to. I've noticed that in other timber sale areas , informal campsites are closed off with logs or rocks. Since the forest service has trouble enforcing the 14 day camping limit. And with the cost of housing, there is more and more pressure on dispersed camping areas in Fourmile Creek. Those of us that want to camp with our horses for recreation have a hard time finding good campsites as it is, and these timber sales sound like they'll diminish them even more. Please at least provide dispersed camping areas with room to set up electric pens. Please don't close off camping access as part of this project. Fourmile is a beautiful place to ride a horse. Thank you!
