Comments: Please don't chop down any more of our bucolic Jellico forest. These precious national forests belong to all of us, not just the lumber companies. The animals and plants living in Jellico are an important part of this forested ecological system. Don't they also deserve your empathy and protection?

I am asking that this precious forest be protected for the benefit of habitat protection, lessening global warming, preventing erosion, stopping soil compaction, reducing invasive plant species, protecting endangered species, and for its truly wonderful benefit for us all. When I walk in a forest it is a spiritual and uplifting experience that everyone should be able to experience.
