Comments: This US Forest Service project should have everyone's unwavering support. Treating non-native and invasive plants with select herbicides is the only means of eradicating them.

I have 30 years of experience battling invasive plant and aquatic species throughout the eastern US. Up until the last decade, southeast Ohio has fortunately been spared from the devastating effects of invasive plants and insects. USFS needs everyone's support to eradicate several invasive plant species before they get out of control in this region.
