Comments: To whom this may concern,

I am writing to oppose the expansion of mining in National Forests. While these spaces are the land of many uses, I believe mining is no longer reconcilable with sustainable development. In addition to harming recreational opportunities, mining would severely harm other sectors, such as logging. In addition, the potential for mining to contaminate the watershed is too severe to warrant new mining. Please consider these statements when reviewing the proposed mining project.

Sincerely,

A concerned citizen of Idaho
