Comments: I'm not sure we can trust Liberty Gold to handle the Black Pine Mine project. They don't have a long track record, and it is unclear if they will clean up after themselves. They seem overly enthusiastic about Idaho being a mining-friendly area, which makes me think they will be all too happy to shut down operations and leave with what money they can extract from this failed mine and then get out without doing any kind of post-mining environmental mitigation. This mine already failed one recently, and I'm not convinced this group can revive it, especially since their whole operation is currently riding on this one asset to save their operations. If one little thing goes wrong, then they could go belly-up, and leave the state and the federal government with the bill.
