Comments: I believe the goals of this project are well-intended. However, I DO NOT believe that the plan, as outlined, will meet these goals. The proposed sustained yield unit plan won't solve the problems it purports to address. The areas most in need of clearance will provide low-grade lumber that is of little use. And cutting the areas that will provide high-grade lumber will have long-term deleterious effects on the health of the forest. The Forest Service should instead work with the State of Montana to develop a plan that offers meaningful solutions for local communities and the forest products industry.
