Comments: The Pinecrest lake area is a locally sacred location. Its value comes directly from its distance to heavy development. It's a paradise (mostly) untouched by the paws of greed. Pinecrest is a respite from the ills of the modern world. It's a place where people from all over the world get to frolick in nature, in a valley of unexplainable beauty-a beauty that would be dimmed by twisting of zoning which has so-far protected her. Keep Pinecrest wild (as can be). This community prides itself on being remote, and being unique compared to all the cookie cutter valley towns up and down the 99 corridor. Pinecrest is a major part of that unique remoteness. Don't sully a good thing.
