Comments: Dear Acting Forest Supervisor,

I am writing in opposition to the North Trinity County Community Risk Reduction Project. This project proposes commercial logging that would disrupt wildlife habitats, including that of the Northern Spotted Owl, damage forest ecosystems, and reduce our already declining forest resources with insufficient regard for ecological preservation.

This area provides homes for endangered species and is critical to preserve, especially in our current climate.

This project does not describe environmental protection and pure fire risk reduction. Reducing canopy cover, removing large trees over 20 inches, with miles of temporary roads, skid trails, and likely hundreds of clear-cut log landings would be destructive, not protective.

I urge you to revise the EA around a prescription that is targeted, enforceable, and grounded in science. Protecting communities and protecting wildlife are not mutually exclusive.

Treating small-diameter vegetation, limiting harvest to trees under 20 inches, using the existing road system, and maintaining 60 to 80 percent canopy cover would reduce fire risk without dismantling the forest that wildlife depends on.

Sincerely,

Jade Sullivan
