Comments: I support the wildfire mitigation project and related efforts. It will be extremely important as Utah faces being in drought.

In executing the project, I think keeping the forests roadless, and not adding additional roads to help carry out the interventions is crucial.

Also, and I'm not sure how probable this is, maybe some percent of the trees cut down can be repurposed into things like biochar, compost, erosion mitigation. This will reduce wood burned, smoke pollution, and contribute to sustainable practices.
