Comments: This proposed expansive mineral exploration project has the potential for way too many adverse impacts on wildlife (including several endangered species), watersheds (including the already impacted Little Blackfoot and its drainages), and nearby wildlands to be rushed through a inadequate review process. That process practically shuts out public input by not scheduling public hearings and not having a reasonable timeline for the public to comment. I must insist that at a minimum the Forest Service hold public hearings and extend the opportunity for a thorough public comment period. Without this opportunity I can only oppose this project as described. Thank you.
