Comments: A public hearing needs to be held for the 11,000 acre mining exploration project proposed by Falcon Copper. The damage such proposal would cause to the Little Blackfoot watershed and its wildlife would be irreparable. Montanans need to learn from the mistakes of the past and not let big money mining corporations pretend that any adverse affects to natural habitats aren't important to our way of life. Big money interests are so yesterday and just plain rooted in greed to satisfy the interests of the few! It's long past the time for embracing clean energy to protect our beautiful state and if we're going to maintain our nation's status as a global leader.
