Comments: As a Colorado resident and retiree, I feel this project expansion is a hazard to our already stressed wildlife and needs to stop from moving forward. Nature is to be protected, not exploited for profits. This type of invasion endangers our environment by creating more flammable chemicals that can ultimately destroy human life and wilderness that is already in dangered by drought in our state due to global warming. The rush to land grab for profit puts our country in danger of losing the open spaces that no one should own but remain free. Do not build out this gem that needs everyone's protection.
