

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 7/31/2026 5:25:19 PM

First name: John

Last name: Roche

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Stop logging 1,735 acres of Willamette National Forest plantations. Logging dense plantation stands can disrupt recovering understory and destabilize soils.

Proponents of halting the harvest point to the need to protect sensitive native habitats.

Activists advocate for prioritizing passive recovery and natural forest maturation over commercial thinning and extraction.