

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 8/1/2026 3:36:25 PM

First name: Pam

Last name: Hoikka

Organization:

Title:

Comments: These forests need managed like a crop. Cutting out the logging was a really stupid thing to do. Now they are burning up. And the smoke that goes into the atmosphere can't be good by any shape or form. By not logging you have a ton of deadfall which makes the forest a fire just waiting to happen. Then in turn makes a fire hard to fight. Not having roads into the forests also makes fires hard to fight. Back in the day when there was a lightning strike the loggers were out there and they put those fires out before they ever got out of hand. We never had these terrible wildfires that we are now dealing with. That should tell you all something. I don't care if you clear cut or not. When you clear cut you replant. Like we used to do. Get those loggers back out in the woods and open the mills back up. It is a win win for everyone. Don't let people who know nothing about managing a forest make the calls. The animals who live in the forest have lived there for years and did when we were logging . Now they also loose when there is a forest fire. If they live thru it and many won't their food is burned up. Put the loggers back in the woods and stop the terrible wildfires.