I do not see how this expansion project can justifiably fit into the current realities of drought and extreme DRY in the northeast. This puts recreation for the financially elite ahead of basic water needs for the remaining human, plant, animal, and microbial populations.

This project, if executed as is, will fundamentally change the landscape and the local water cycle with its sub-watersheds.

Poor planning, exploitation of important resources, and benefits to a chosen, privileged few.

Not a project deserving of consideration or approval.
