Comments: I hike near Santa Fe National Forest with my brother who lives in Albuquerque. It is a beautiful area that I love to take pictures and enjoy the wildlife.

I hope to see all kinds of birds and hopefully some Big Horn Sheep and Red Foxes, even a Mountain Loin if it is in the distance,

I photograph everything! Wildlife, the natural scenery. I especially enjoy taking pictures of sunrises and sunsets.

I want my money to go towards keeping wild places wild and protecting wildlife.

I want my son to be able to enjoy the unspoiled beauty and to be able to have his kids enjoy this someday. I want wildlife to be safe and not a thing of the past.

Managing The Carson National Forest responsibly would be making sure that the land is left in a natural state as much as possible and that experts and environmentalists are able to provide their input on the best ways to do what is best for the land. Wildlife would be a top priority and decisions would be made on what is best for the long term survival of the species.

I oppose Stop logging across 104,822 acres on Carson National Forest and ask the agency to respond to each of the following issues in the record:
