Comments: The snowmobile trails near Brianhead are a very important part of Southern Utah's tourism industry. They are also very important to Parowan/Brianhead's culture and their residents' livelihoods. Closure of these trails for other uses would be a great loss to these communities, including my family and friends that are employed by Thunder Mountain. They do not have the means nor desire to move elsewhere, which is what would likely have to happen if the snowmobile trails are gone. I urge a reconsideration of this decision in order to protect the trails for recreational use.
