Comments: I enjoy hiking at the Yellowjacket Campground area with my son and my siblings.

I hope to see wildlife such as deer, birds, and any other wildlife that is possible in the area such as Pronghorn Antelope.

I photograph everything from birds and wildlife to lakes, mountains, wild flowers- anything that I find interesting or beautiful.

The water from the Malheur National Forest does not feed anyone I know, however it does feed many people and wildlife and it needs to be protected and safe. I worry that the loosening of the Clean Water Act will lead to more polluted water and loss of wildlife.

Managing the Malheur National Forest responsibly would be doing what is right for long term health, such as maintaining healthy wildlife populations and keeping these in balance, keeping the trails and roads maintained with minimum affect to the environment. Also using prescribed burns if needed and not building new roads to fight fire unless absolutely needed. These roads can lead to fires and are not as successful as thought.

Our forests need to be around for future generations, often it is just short term gains or goals that are considered instead of the long term big picture.

I oppose Stop harmful logging and grazing rules in the Blue Mountains and ask the agency to respond to each of the following issues in the record:
