Comments: I am commenting because my family depends on the road system in the Blue Mountains for hunting, fishing, ATV riding, and berry picking. These activities are important to us, and we rely on existing motorized access to enjoy them. The final plan must protect and maintain the motorized access we have now, and restore access where it has already been reduced. Wildlife and habitat management must not be used to take away motorized access. The Forest Service must fully disclose and analyze how changes to access would affect roads, routes, families, and communities. Protecting and restoring this access is essential for people like me who use and care about the forest.
