Comments: I have family that live an thrive by and at Brian head. The proposed reasons for expansion do not help support them at all. Shutting down a whole area to grow another sounds silly to me. Not every one likes to or can ski, so having the variety of motor sports and snowmobiling is huge. Life is hard enough without taking away trials, that are already limited, a choice of activity, when we all enjoy different things, and taking away jobs and people's lively hood, when there is already access to skiing. Taking away multiple things to bring more of one thing doesn't make sense. Plus expansion will take a lot of money. Why not use that money to make better what's already there and available? Really make sure to think of all people and prices involved. It's not about just about making one thing more for a few, it's about making more things better for everyone. God bless.
