Comments: These forests must be protected strongly. My favorite part about being alive is the forests honestly. It is absolutely unacceptable to roll back existing protections or to weaken them. Animals are in danger facing habitat loss. We all need intact ecosystems to continue living. Wildlife, carbon, water, and ecosystem integrity shall not go on the chopping block. No logging old growth. Strong enforceable mandatory standards must be upheld and there are no excuses. This public comment period is too short. Every life in those 5 million acres and all of our lives is worth more than that. Do better these forests must not become logging sites and tree farms or else it is a death sentence for you and yours, not an exaggeration, we need intact forests old growth trees and all life on earth. This is not up for debate do not allow those forests to be logged or for their protections to be weakened at all this is the public speaking
