To whom and all it may concern,

My husband and I own and operate a river outfitting business on the Selway River. We are deeply concerned about the recent Nez-Perce-Clearwater proposal for the Hoodoo Roadless area. Our company thrives because of Wilderness. Our guests are so appreciative of the deep immersion they have in a predominately wilderness setting and how powerful it is to disconnect from modern-day technology, lifestyles and stresses.

While we understand there are certain places that need to be managed without complying with the standards of The Wilderness Act, the Hoodoo Roadless area/Great Burn is not one of them.

This area is critical for wildlife and year round habitat, especially during the winter months. To allow snowmobiles or other motorized recreation in this area is a clear erosion of what is both scientifically beneficial as well as magical about this unique area.

As individuals and Idaho Outfitters, we support Option A.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Danielia & Ari Kotler
