Comments: As the new proposed area designated for snowmobile riding should not even be considered to be a riding area, as the area historically has been too low in elevation to receive any snow so this area is unacceptable, unsafe, and shouldn't even be considered. While I haven't seen any data that shows that snowmobiles have affected the riding area that has been in place for many years would be a great start for this area to be taken away from snowmobilers. The already Wilderness Area is a huge area that goes untouched and stays in its natural state and the actual snowmobile riding area is very small in size in comparison. More data with actual intel should be researched and evaluated before area any can be taking away or given.
