

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 4/29/2010 9:46:00 PM

First name: kyle

Last name: colavito

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Coronado Forest Wilderness Plan

I recently found out that portions of Mt Lemmon in the Coronado National Forest are potentially being name as Wilderness areas. While I strongly agree with the designation of wilderness areas as an important thing, there are several trails that I have personally used to mountain bike. Access to trails such as Bug Springs, is important in a climate such as Tucson. I know of other areas, such as Moab, where wilderness designations were split around trails to ensure mountain bike access. I just wanted you to know that mountain bikers were users on the trails of Mount Lemmon.

Thanks

Kyle Colavito

Mechanical Engineering

University of Arizona

Work (520) 626-5225

Lab (520) 621-6092

Cell (520)250-8409

kcolavit@u.arizona.edu

kyle.colavito@gmail.com