Comments: I oppose the proposal. While I respect the concern of fire, this area already burned and logging after a fire can create erosion and also leave slash that creates a higher risk of a fire than not logging. There was a previous plan, the 2001 Dixie Fuel Break project, that was science-based and supported by conservation groups. It had proposals to protect structures that did not involve logging in roadless areas. This plan should be implemented instead of the current one.
