Comments: I am writing because I am concerned about access, roads, travel management, Recreation Opportunity Spectrum, and scenery in the Blue Mountains Forest Plan Revision. My family has hunted, camped, and visited the Malheur National Forest for nearly 40 years, and over that time, I have seen habitat quality steadily decline due to poor management. We are now at a tipping point where more logging and other active management could actually improve habitat. The Forest Plan Revision must not make things worse. Most importantly, do not reduce access. Enough roads have already been closed, whether intentionally or through neglect. The final plan must protect and maintain all existing motorized access, and restore access where it has already been reduced. I am asking the Forest Service to maintain access everywhere and restore it whenever opportunities arise. The attached photo was taken on the forest; the featured two-track is the sort of road that could be closed, and shots like this would be inaccessible.
